

MER

MENSURAL. adj. [from mensura, Latin.] Relating to measure.

To MENSURATE. v. a. [from mensura, Latin.] To measure; to take the dimension of any thing.

MENSURATION. n. f. [from mensura, Latin.] The act or practice of measuring; result of measuring.

After giving the mensuration and argumentation of Dr. Cumberland, it would not have been fair to have suppressed those of another prelate.

MENTAL. adj. [mentale, French; mentis, Lat.] Intellectual; existing in the mind.

What a mental power
This eye shoots forth? How big imagination
Moves in this lip? To the dumbness of the gesture
One might interpret.

So deep the power of these ingredients pierc'd,
Ev'n to the inmost seat of mental light,
That Adam now enforc'd to close his eyes,
Sunk down, and all his spirits became entranc'd.

The metaphor of taste would not have been to general, had there not been a very great conformity between the mental taste and that sensitive taste that affects the palate.

What a mental power
This eye shoots forth? How big imagination
Moves in this lip? To the dumbness of the gesture
One might interpret.

So deep the power of these ingredients pierc'd,
Ev'n to the inmost seat of mental light,
That Adam now enforc'd to close his eyes,
Sunk down, and all his spirits became entranc'd.

The metaphor of taste would not have been to general, had there not been a very great conformity between the mental taste and that sensitive taste that affects the palate.

What a mental power
This eye shoots forth? How big imagination
Moves in this lip? To the dumbness of the gesture
One might interpret.

So deep the power of these ingredients pierc'd,
Ev'n to the inmost seat of mental light,
That Adam now enforc'd to close his eyes,
Sunk down, and all his spirits became entranc'd.

The metaphor of taste would not have been to general, had there not been a very great conformity between the mental taste and that sensitive taste that affects the palate.

What a mental power
This eye shoots forth? How big imagination
Moves in this lip? To the dumbness of the gesture
One might interpret.

So deep the power of these ingredients pierc'd,
Ev'n to the inmost seat of mental light,
That Adam now enforc'd to close his eyes,
Sunk down, and all his spirits became entranc'd.

The metaphor of taste would not have been to general, had there not been a very great conformity between the mental taste and that sensitive taste that affects the palate.

What a mental power
This eye shoots forth? How big imagination
Moves in this lip? To the dumbness of the gesture
One might interpret.

So deep the power of these ingredients pierc'd,
Ev'n to the inmost seat of mental light,
That Adam now enforc'd to close his eyes,
Sunk down, and all his spirits became entranc'd.

The metaphor of taste would not have been to general, had there not been a very great conformity between the mental taste and that sensitive taste that affects the palate.

What a mental power
This eye shoots forth? How big imagination
Moves in this lip? To the dumbness of the gesture
One might interpret.

So deep the power of these ingredients pierc'd,
Ev'n to the inmost seat of mental light,
That Adam now enforc'd to close his eyes,
Sunk down, and all his spirits became entranc'd.

The metaphor of taste would not have been to general, had there not been a very great conformity between the mental taste and that sensitive taste that affects the palate.

What a mental power
This eye shoots forth? How big imagination
Moves in this lip? To the dumbness of the gesture
One might interpret.

So deep the power of these ingredients pierc'd,
Ev'n to the inmost seat of mental light,
That Adam now enforc'd to close his eyes,
Sunk down, and all his spirits became entranc'd.

The metaphor of taste would not have been to general, had there not been a very great conformity between the mental taste and that sensitive taste that affects the palate.

What a mental power
This eye shoots forth? How big imagination
Moves in this lip? To the dumbness of the gesture
One might interpret.

So deep the power of these ingredients pierc'd,
Ev'n to the inmost seat of mental light,
That Adam now enforc'd to close his eyes,
Sunk down, and all his spirits became entranc'd.

The metaphor of taste would not have been to general, had there not been a very great conformity between the mental taste and that sensitive taste that affects the palate.

What a mental power
This eye shoots forth? How big imagination
Moves in this lip? To the dumbness of the gesture
One might interpret.

So deep the power of these ingredients pierc'd,
Ev'n to the inmost seat of mental light,
That Adam now enforc'd to close his eyes,
Sunk down, and all his spirits became entranc'd.

The metaphor of taste would not have been to general, had there not been a very great conformity between the mental taste and that sensitive taste that affects the palate.

What a mental power
This eye shoots forth? How big imagination
Moves in this lip? To the dumbness of the gesture
One might interpret.

So deep the power of these ingredients pierc'd,
Ev'n to the inmost seat of mental light,
That Adam now enforc'd to close his eyes,
Sunk down, and all his spirits became entranc'd.

The metaphor of taste would not have been to general, had there not been a very great conformity between the mental taste and that sensitive taste that affects the palate.

What a mental power
This eye shoots forth? How big imagination
Moves in this lip? To the dumbness of the gesture
One might interpret.

So deep the power of these ingredients pierc'd,
Ev'n to the inmost seat of mental light,
That Adam now enforc'd to close his eyes,
Sunk down, and all his spirits became entranc'd.

The metaphor of taste would not have been to general, had there not been a very great conformity between the mental taste and that sensitive taste that affects the palate.

What a mental power
This eye shoots forth? How big imagination
Moves in this lip? To the dumbness of the gesture
One might interpret.

So deep the power of these ingredients pierc'd,
Ev'n to the inmost seat of mental light,
That Adam now enforc'd to close his eyes,
Sunk down, and all his spirits became entranc'd.

The metaphor of taste would not have been to general, had there not been a very great conformity between the mental taste and that sensitive taste that affects the palate.

What a mental power
This eye shoots forth? How big imagination
Moves in this lip? To the dumbness of the gesture
One might interpret.

So deep the power of these ingredients pierc'd,
Ev'n to the inmost seat of mental light,
That Adam now enforc'd to close his eyes,
Sunk down, and all his spirits became entranc'd.

The metaphor of taste would not have been to general, had there not been a very great conformity between the mental taste and that sensitive taste that affects the palate.

What a mental power
This eye shoots forth? How big imagination
Moves in this lip? To the dumbness of the gesture
One might interpret.

So deep the power of these ingredients pierc'd,
Ev'n to the inmost seat of mental light,
That Adam now enforc'd to close his eyes,
Sunk down, and all his spirits became entranc'd.

The metaphor of taste would not have been to general, had there not been a very great conformity between the mental taste and that sensitive taste that affects the palate.

What a mental power
This eye shoots forth? How big imagination
Moves in this lip? To the dumbness of the gesture
One might interpret.

So deep the power of these ingredients pierc'd,
Ev'n to the inmost seat of mental light,
That Adam now enforc'd to close his eyes,
Sunk down, and all his spirits became entranc'd.

The metaphor of taste would not have been to general, had there not been a very great conformity between the mental taste and that sensitive taste that affects the palate.

What a mental power
This eye shoots forth? How big imagination
Moves in this lip? To the dumbness of the gesture
One might interpret.

So deep the power of these ingredients pierc'd,
Ev'n to the inmost seat of mental light,
That Adam now enforc'd to close his eyes,
Sunk down, and all his spirits became entranc'd.

The metaphor of taste would not have been to general, had there not been a very great conformity between the mental taste and that sensitive taste that affects the palate.

MER

denotes such an one as makes his reward both the sole motive and measure of his obedience.

I still must own a mercenary mind. Dryden's Aurengzebe.

MERCENARY. n. f. [mercenarius, Fr.] A hireling; one retained or serving for pay.

He a poor mercenary serves for bread;

For all his travel, only cloth'd and fed. Sonnet's Paraph.

MERCER. n. f. [mercier, French.] One who sells silks.

The draper and mercer may measure religion as they please, and the weaver may cast her upon what loom he pleases.

MERCERY. n. f. [mercerie, Fr. from mercer.] Trade of mercers; dealing in silks.

The mercery is gone from out of Lombard-street and Cheapside into Paternoster-row and Fleet-street.

To MERCHAND. v. n. [marchander, French.] To traffick by traffick.

Ferdinando merchanted with France for the restoring Rouffignion and Perpignan, oppugned to them.

MERCHANDISE. n. f. [marchandise, French.] 1. Traffick; commerce; trade.

If a son, that is sent by his father about merchandise, fall into some lewd action, his wickedness, by your rule, should be imputed upon his father.

2. Wares; any thing to be bought or sold.

Fair when her breast, like a rich laden bark
With precious merchandise, the forth doth lay.

Thou shalt not tell her at all for money; thou shalt not make merchandise of her.

As for any merchandise you have brought, ye shall have your return in merchandise or in gold.

So active a people will always have money, whilst they can find what merchandise they please to Mexico.

To MERCHANDISE. v. n. To trade; to traffick; to exercise commerce.

The Phoenicians, of whose exceeding merchandising we read so much in ancient histories, were Canaanites, whose very name signifies merchants.

MERCHANT. n. f. [marchand, French.] One who trafficks to remote countries.

France hath flaw'd the league, and hath attach'd
Our merchants goods at Bourdeaux.

The Lord hath given a commandment against the merchant city to destroy the strong holds thereof.

The most celebrated merchants in the world were situated in the island of Tyre.

MERCHANTLY. adj. [from merchant.] Like a merchant.

MERCHANTLIKE. adj.

MERCHANDISE. n. f. [merchant and man.] A ship of trade.

Pirates have fair winds and a calm sea, when the just and peaceful merchant-man hath them.

In the time of Augustus and Tiberius, the southern coasts of Spain sent great fleets of merchant-men to Italy.

MERCHANDISE. adj. [mercabilis, Lat. from merchant.] Fit to be bought or sold.

Why they placed this invention in the beaver, beside the medical and merchantable commodity of castor, or parts conceived to be bitten away, might be the sagacity of that animal.

MERCIABLE. adj. [from mercy.] This word in Spenser signifies merciful.

Nought but well mought him beight:

He is so meek, wile, merciable,
And with his word his work is convenient.

MERCIFUL. adj. [mercy and full.] Compassionate; tender; kind; unwilling to punish; willing to pity and spare.

Be merciful, O Lord, unto thy people thou hast redeemed.

MERCIFULNESS. n. f. [from merciful.] Tenderness; willingness to spare.

The band that ought to knit all these excellencies together is a kind mercifulness to such a one, as is in his soul devoted to such perfections.

Use the means ordinary and lawful, among which mercifulness and liberality is one, to which the promise of secular wealth is most frequently made.

MERCILESS. adj. [from mercy.] Void of mercy; pitiless; hard hearted; cruel; severe.

His mother mercilefs,
Most mercilefs of women Wyden bright,

Her other son fast sleeping did oppress,
And with most cruel hand him murdered pitiless.

The foe is mercilefs, and will not pity.

Think

MER

Think not their rage to desperate t' essay
An element more mercilefs than they.

What God so mean,
So mercilefs a tyrant to obey!

Whatever ravages a mercilefs distemper may commit, she shall have one man as much her admirer as ever.

The torrent mercilefs imbibes
Commissions, perquisites, and bribes.

MERCILESSLY. adv. [from mercilefs.] In a manner void of pity.

MERCILESSNESS. n. f. [from mercilefs.] Want of pity.

MERCURIAL. adj. [mercurialis, Lat.] 1. Formed under the influence of mercury; active; sprightly.

I know the shape of 's leg: This is his hand,
His foot mercurial, his martial thigh,

The brawns of Hercules.

This youth was such a mercurial, as could make his own part, if at any time he chanced to be out.

Tully considered the dispositions of a sincere, more ignorant, and less mercurial nation, by dwelling on the pathetic part.

2. Confiding of quicksilver.

MERCURIALITY. adj. [from mercury.] The act of mixing any thing with quicksilver.

I add the ways of mercurification.

MERCURY. n. f. [mercurius, Latin.] 1. The chemist's name for quicksilver is mercury.

The gall of animals and mercury kill worms; and the water in which mercury is boiled has this effect.

2. Sprightly qualities.

Thus the mercury of man is fix'd,
Strong grows the virtue with his nature mix'd;

The dross cements what else were too refin'd,
And in one int'rest body acts with mind.

3. A news-paper.

4. It is now applied, in cant phrase, to the carriers of news and pamphlets.

MERCURY. n. f. [mercurialis, Latin.] A plant.

The leaves of the mercury are crenated, and grow by pairs opposite: the cup of the flower consists of one leaf, which expands and is cut into three segments; these are male and female in different places: the flowers of the male grow in long spikes, and consist of many stamina and apices, which are loaded with farina: the ovary of the female plant becomes a teficulated fruit, having a single round seed in each cell.

Herb mercury is of an emollient nature, and is eaten in the manner of spinach, which, when cultivated in a garden, it greatly excels.

MERCURY. n. f. [merci, French, contracted from misericordia, Latin.]

1. Tenderness; goodness; pity; willingness to save; clemency; mildness; unwillingness to punish.

Oh heav'n have mercy on me!
—I say, amen.

And have you mercy too?

It droppeth, as the gentle rain from heav'n,
Upon the place beneath. It is twice blest'd;

It blesteth him that gives and him that takes.
Avice, and have mercy upon Zion.

Thou, O God, art gracious, long-suffering, and in mercy ordering all.

Examples of justice must be made for terror to some; examples of mercy for comfort to others: the one procures fear, and the other love.

Good heav'n, whose darling attribute we find
Is boundless grace, and mercy to mankind,
Abhors the cruel.

We adore his undeserved mercy towards us, that he made us the chief of the visible creation.

2. Pardon.

'Twere a paper lost,
As offer'd mercy is.

That you have taken a tardy huggard here.

I cry thee mercy with all my heart, for suspecting a friar of the least good-nature.

3. Discretion; power of acting at pleasure.

What good condition can a treaty find
I th' part that is at mercy?

The most authentic record of so ancient a family should lie at the mercy of every infant who flings a stone.

A lover is ever complaining of cruelty while any thing is denied him; and when the lady ceases to be cruel, the is from the next moment, at his mercy.

MERCY-SEAT. n. f. [mercy and seat.]

The mercy-seat was the covering of the ark of the covenant, in which the tables of the law were deposited: it was of gold, and at its two ends were fixed the two cherubims, of the same metal, which with their wings extended forwards, seemed to form a throne for the majesty of God, who in scripture is represented as sitting between the cherubims, and the ark was his footstool: it was from hence that God gave his oracles to Moses, or to the high-priest that consulted him.

MER

Make a mercy-seat of pure gold.

MERE, adj. [merus, Latin.] That or this only; such and nothing else; this only.

This avarice
Strikes deeper, grows with more pernicious root
Than Summer-teeming lust; and it hath been
The sword of our slain kings: yet do not fear,
Scotland hath foisons to fill up your will
Of your mere own.

I have engag'd myself to a dear friend,
Engag'd my friend to his mere enemy,
To feed my means.

The mere Irish were not admitted to the benefit of the laws of England, until they had purchased charters of denization.

From mere success nothing can be concluded in favour of any nation upon whom it is bestowed.

What if the head, the eye, or ear repin'd,
To serve mere engines to the ruling mind.

Let Eastern tyrants from the light of heav'n
Seclude their bosom slaves, meanly possess'd
Of a mere, lifeless, violated form.

MERE or MER, whether in the beginning, middle, or end, always signify the same with the Saxon mere, a pool or lake.

MERE. n. f. [mepe, Saxon.] 1. A pool; commonly a large pool or lake: as, Winander mere.

I may say nothing of mere stored both with fish and fowl.

2. A boundary.

The midlayer of a mere-stone is to blame: but it is the unjust judge that is the capital remover of land-marks, who defileth amils of lands.

MEREY. adv. [from mere.] Simply; only; thus and no other way; for this and for no other end or purpose.

Which thing we ourselves would grant, if the use thereof had been merely and only mythical.

These external manners of laments
Are merely shadows to the unseen grief,
That swells with silence in the torn'd soul.

It is below reasonable creatures to be conversant in such diversions as are merely innocent and have nothing else to recommend them.

Above a thousand bought his almanack merely to find what he said against me.

Prize not your life for other ends
Than merely to oblige your friends.

MERETRIOUS. adj. [meretricius, meretrix, Latin.] Whorish; such as is practised by prostitutes; alluring by false show.

Our degenerate understandings having suffered a sad divorce from their dearest object, defile themselves with every meretricious semblance, that the variety of opinion presents them with.

Not by affected, meretricious arts,
But strict harmonious symmetry of parts.

MERETRIOUSLY. adv. [from meretricious.] Whorishly; after the manner of whores.

MERETRIOUSNESS. n. f. [from meretricious.] False allure-ment like those of strumpets.

MERIDIAN. n. f. [meridien, French; meridian, Lat.] 1. Noon; mid-day.

He promis'd in his East a glorious race,
Now sunk from his meridian, sets apace.

2. The line drawn from North to South, which the Sun crosses at noon.

The true meridian is a circle passing through the poles of the world, and the zenith or vertex of any place, exactly dividing the East from the West.

The Sun or Moon, rising or setting, our idea represents bigger than when on the meridian.

3. The particular place or state of any thing.

All other knowledge merely serves the concerns of this life, and is fitted to the meridian thereof: they are such as will be of little use to a separate soul.

4. The highest point of glory or power.

I've touch'd the highest point of all my greatness,
And from that full meridian of my glory
I haste now to my setting.

Your full majesty at once breaks forth
In the meridian of your reign.

MERIDIAN. adj.

1. At the point of noon.

Sometimes towards Eden, which now in his view
Lay pleasant, his griev'd look he fixes sad;

Sometimes